$n$ just twenty seconds it will be exactly eight o'clock and your announcer, the Westvian, will present to you, literally as well as pictorially the course of the West View High School events in I94I as they unwind themselves in its pages.
$\bigcap_{\text {istory }}$ is being made daily, not only in the turbulent world about us, but right between the hallowed walls of our high school. It is concerning this history that this book is composed, dedicated and fashioned. We have endeavored, between its covers, to bring to you a clear, concire view of what a radio announcer would see as he strolled, microphone in hand, about the halls and classrooms of West View High School. As chief engineers this year, we have had Charles Perlik as Editor-in-Chief and Allen James as Business Manager. And so fellow students, dignified faculty, and casual readers, we now turn the air waves over to your reporter and mine the ....

SCHOOL BOARD

Here they are! The men at the controls of our school system are none other than the schoolboard, the supervising principal, and the building principal. It doesn't take our principals, Mr. Horsch and Mr. Paynter, long to get everything in ship-shape order in the control room when we want things accomplished. And what does the schoolboard do? They act as engineers of our educational system, making ours one of great advancement, advantage, and one in which we receive the same opportunities that our neighboring school districts offer.

Those now serving as our school directors are:

Frederick S. Brown, President
H. G. Canning, Secretary
A. W. Bingle

Louis D. Reilly
J. Vass

Samuel E. Warrick
Edward C. Werner
Charles E. Wissner

Tune in any first Tuesday after the first Monday of each month at the high school, and you'll hear our school board discussing the pros and cons of the latest bit of school business.

FACULTY

Goodness me! What a mess! It's almost time to go on the air and we haven't a program in order yet. We'd better try writing one. What will it be? Run over to the library and see what Miss Skovira might have to help us out. Surely in a library of our size, we'd have something on radio programs. We might have a health show and get Miss Aiken, Miss Viard, and Mr. Reed to help us. Do you think our radio listeners would like that? Or maybe we could have a round-table discussion in foreign languages. Let's see now, Mr. Craig could represent France; Mr. Puchta, Germany; Mr. Herman, Spain; and Miss Vance, Rome. Say, that wouldn't work. Our audience couldn't understand a word of what was going on. What was that? Miss Thompson and Mr. Zerke could interpret it in English? No, I don't think that would work. Think of something quick! Our time is getting short! We might ask Miss Laing to round up a few Quiz kids. Miss Wallitsch and Miss McGinnis could submit the math problems and Miss Kiedaisch, Mr. Hartman, and Mr. Metz could get a few questions on the international situation. That's too common though. We need a program that is truly different

Think of some story with a hero in it. You know, a big husky man-. Man? Man, did I say? Oh my, how horrible. Among all this confusion I ve forgotten what a man is. Won't someone help me? This is driving me insane. Hurry to the scientific department and find out from Miss Allen, Mr. Kruse, or Mr. Davis. One of those should know. While you're gone we can arrange the music for our program with Miss Connor and Mr. Camp. Since television is in, well need prop

We must have our commercials so we'll give that job to Miss Daubenspeck, Miss Wright, and Mr. Jordan.

Now everything is set. Did you find out what a man is? "A thing with a head, two arms, two legs, and a body?" Goodness where will we ever find that? Dash over to Mr. Thcmas in the chemistry lab and see if he can mix one up for us. If not, Mr. Tiffany may be able to provide us with a mechanical one

Only two minutes left! What to do? What to do? Our time is approaching. Oh my! Hurry Hurry! A man, quick! my kingdom for a man!

"Information Please"

What is this? What have we here? I'm sure our radio is clear of static, but how is the television department? This picture seems to be covered with writing. Well, imagine that! Signatures of all our teachers! Many were the times when such a signature served as our admittance ticket to go beyond one of the closed classroom doors.

"The March of Time" is on the air! 'Tis spring again and another senior class advances toward the open gates of the business world and college life. Senior sponsors, Miss Daubenspeck and Mr. Puchta, have done their parts in preparing us for the knocks of the cruel, cruel world. Shall we turn back our dials on the radio and tune in on some of the activities of the last school year?

Time Marches Backward!
Our dial is set and here we go. What could have been more fun than the first class party held at Rose Grove? Did all the seniors have a nice time? You bet they did! Henry Aldrich made his appearance in "What A Life," the class play, in November. The members of the class proved their excellent spirit by supporting the play through a splendid sale of tickets.

If "there is something about a soldier" the Military Swing provided an appropriate place to prove it

As the end of the year drew near, all seniors began trudging to school in the evening for commencement practices. Amid struggles of practices and assignments to be completed for teachers, came the Junior Prom at Wildwood Country Club. And now, turn that dial ahead to the biggest event of all. June 4 th, all parents and friends assembled at Heinz auditorium to see the class present their graduation program, "On Our Way," and to hear Dorothy Beierle present the Valedictory address. The grand finale of the great senior program was the Dinner-Dance at Wildwood Country Club.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Well . . . isn't this a group of inquisitive youngsters? This is the first impression I got as I entered Room 104 while Student Council was in progress. First a question would be raised such as: Why are assemblies compulsory? What can we do about the noise in the halls? Or, why can't the calendar be arranged to space the activities more evenly? After each question the Quiz kids carried on a lengthly discussion, and they were told to take each of the questions back to their home rooms to get the student body's opinion in the matter. For the students are the ones to be consulted in all questions. The council sponsors many activities during the course of the year. The annual Homecoming of all alumni at Christmas is under their sponsorship. Mr. Herman and Mr. Metz sponsors of our Student Council, take a back seat while president Andy Kelly leads on in the discussion of school problems.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Push button tuning! Such fun! Wait, don't push the next button! Let's listen to this for a few minutes. It's an announcement of awards. Of what, though? The latest soap contest? No, it's the National Honor awards. Listen, our announcer is giving the origin of the society in West View. He said that on March 13, 1939, we were given and origin of the society in West View. He said that on March 13, 1939, we were given and granted charter number 2200 . To obtain membership each senior is judged upon character, granted charter number 2200 . Tervice, scholarship and leadership as requisites of personality. Say, who pushed that button? Turn it back before we miss all the names of the selected seniors. Here they are. I hope we haven't missed any.

HALL PATROL

"There will be a slight pause for Hall Patrol identification." That is a familiar line heard in the classes to which the 35 Hall Patrol members attend. Their new rose and gold arm bands are checked, and then they are permitted to leave class two minutes early and be at their stations when the corrider bell rings. This organization is purely a service club and is governed each year by the Vice-President of Student Council. This year's chief engineer is Jack Connley, and Mr. Puchta is the sponsor. Some folks have been heard saying that the Hall Patrol "doesn't do so much," but just let one member be absent from or late getting to his post and only then will you realize how much the Hall Patrol does in facilitating quick and easy passage through the halls.

TYPE CLUB

Click! Click! Click! It is exactly 1:20 P. M., and the Friday Type Club is on the air. I sincerely wish that all the faithful listeners of this club, which meets every Wednesday and Friday afternoons, could be present so that they might see how gracefully and speedily the members of the club can move their fingertips. But before turning the program over to our mistress of ceremonies, Miss Daubenspeck, I should like to tell you that any senior high school student may become a full-pledged participant in this organization. I shall now turn the microphone over to Miss Daubenspeck who will keep you well informed with the accomplishments of the club for the next thirty-five minutes.

SENIOR ART CLUB

Each week, on Thursday, during Activity period we present the Senior Art Club, which originated in our own art room, Room 201, under the fine supervision of Miss Burrall. During the first part of the year the Art Club worked on their Christmas presentation, "Why the Chimes Rang", given in Assembly for the student body. It proved to be a huge success. Indeed, they did very well. With this over, the club turned its attention to its original purpose, that of work connected with art. Some of the members, who couldn't find it convenient to take up art as a regular course, are learning how to draw and paint. Others worked with handicraft in metals and leather and the like; makings gadgets, jewelry, and practically anything that can be made in an art club. The members of the club feel they have really accomplished a lot during the past year.

JUNIOR ART CLUB

"I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles", that hit of seasons past, makes one think of soap, and aside from soap reminding one of "the neck and behind the ear", it makes me think of the Junior Art Club. Yessir-Ivory has become the password in the club. Miss Burrall has been the instructress in the art of soap carving. If by chance you happened to stray into the art room during the past year, you would have seen fish, little men and beautiful hands at their best, being displayed. Three cheers for the club's presentation at Christmas time of "Why the Chimes Rang". The scenery and the characters were all through the courtesy of the club. Here's to future success of the Junior Art Club.

WEST ZEPHER STAFF

On the last page of our school paper, the West Wind, we have read, this past school term, material gathered by our very able West Zepher Staff. The news on this page is only about or pertaining to Junior High School students. Sponsoring the Junior West Wind Staff this year were Mr. Metz and Miss Ryan. The staff, composed of approximately 35 seventh, eighth, and ninth grade students, gathers the news and bring it each Thursday to Roóm 105. Here, under the combined editorship of David Archer and Homer McCarthy, they write it up and assemble it for typing. Having this subdivision of the paper staff makes it easier to obtain general school news since it enables the staff to have junior high news as well as senior high news. Boys and girls on the West Zepher Staff not only received experience in publication but also did a good job of it.

BOYS HOME EC

Gather round girls-you've had competition this year! For the first time at West View, the boys have tried their hand in the culinary field. The mysteries of a kitchen tempted them to the point of donning aprons and, of all things, reading recipes. Yep! the members of the mightier sex have come to realize that there is a great difference between a tablespoon and a cup, that measuring spoons are not to be handled as baseball bats, and that a strainer is not a substitute for a catcher's glove

Miss Beardslee and Miss Dietrich, along with members of the advanced food classes were on hand to supervise the "goings on". Prudence Penny, the shining star of the club, will have no complaint as the boys did profit by their exploring the art of cooking. The aroma of chocolate cup cakes drifting through the halls and up the steps will long be remembered.

GIRLS SHOP

At the pound of the hammer we turn to girls' shop. Any Thursday or Friday during activity period, you can see and hear the girls working away or asking endless questions of Mr. Tiffany and Mr. Kovach. The "turn out" for shop was so great that the classes were divided in two divisions, of metal shop and wood shop.

The girls made wooden handkerchief boxes, bookends and even wooden pins. Perhaps you have seen some of the bright-colored bracelets and rings that the girls have made in metal shop. This isn't all, either, they also have learned some practical things such as fixing plugs and sockets and correct ways to sharpen knives.

Mr. Tiffany and Mr. Kovach have had their hands full, but I'm sure that the girls have really learned something that will be helpful to them.

SR. DRAMATICS

So you want to be an actcr! Well, just call on Miss Keidaisch or Mr. Craig any time suitable for your audition. If you make the grade, you may soon be on the air presenting a favorite play in "The Little Theatre off Times Square".

Not only is it necessary to have a bit of acting ability but also a slight knowledge of stage managing and stage make-up. But fear not if you know nothing about these, as you soon learn all those phases once you join the club

One act plays have become quite popular and particularly those used in our own assemblies and also in the assemblies of neighboring schools.

The Drama festival proved quite an event for all those attending, and others certainly wished they had been listening in.

JUNIOR DRAMATICS

Is this "Our Barn Theatre" or "The Land of Let's Pretend?" Who are these people anyway? I'm sure it isn't a cast for Lux Radio Theatre as they are all too young. I can't seem to recognize any of those faces as being any child proteges of the stage or screen either. Do you? Wait, there's Miss Wallitsch in the midst of the crowd. Call her over to the microphone for a few minutes. Now tell us please, who are these people? Oh, why didn't we think of that? It's the Junior Dramatic Club. Even those of the lower grades can become actors and actresses. Early training will make them a future Clark Gable, Robert Taylor, Ann Sheridan, or Bette Davis. The class plays of the future should all be good considering this early training and participation on the part of our junior high students.

BAND

This is station W.V.H.S., and the West View High School Band is now on the air. The eyes of the audience are attracted by the rose and gold capes and the hats of the members, made even more noticeable by the adorable short-skirted outfits which the two Drum Majorettes wear. Many an "oh" and an "ah" is heard about the white uniform which Mr. Camp, the director, is wearing as he steps into the vision of the spectators. At the head of this musical group are the two West View High School flag bearers, one carrying the American flag, and the other bears our school flag. Of course, ladies and gentlemen, you already know that we are broadcasting today, from the West View Park Athletic Field where the band is playing in honor of their home team. Mr. Camp is now assembling the band on the field where they are going to play the Alma Mater and later, throughout the game, they will play a number of victory pieces. I see our time is almost up, but before leaving I would like to extend a word of thanks on behalf of the West View High School Band to everyone who participated in helping to make their band concerts, which were held on January 30 and March 20-21-22, a success. As you all remember, in the latter concert, fiftyfive high schools and eight counties were represented. We hope everyone had an enjoyable evening.

ORCHESTRA

We are bringing you the music of the well-known orchestra from West View High School, under the leadership of the very amiable Mr. Camp. There will be a slight pause while the director gives the instructions. As you all know, this orchestra, which is considered among the best, has given untiring assistance by playing at all the important functions of the High School. The members of this musical group are as good musicians as can be found in any high school orchestra and we, the students of West View High School, are proud to have such talented fellow-students. But I see the orchestra is now ready to begin, so I shall turn the microphone over to Mr. Camp and the W.V.H.S. orchestra.

CALLING ALL SINGERS! CALLING ALL SINGERS!! REPORT TO ROOM 102 MONDAY EVENING AT 7:15 SHARP! THAT IS ALL!
Every Monday evening the complete chorus of seventy-five chosen members meet and practice for two hours. All members must, in addition, take at least four hours of voice instruction a week. Our assemblies have become far more impressive, as they are called to order by a soothing hymn floating down from the balcony. Outstanding in the chorus' calendar this year were the annual Christmas Cantata, the Music Festival, and the district contests. Under Miss Conner's able direction, the chorus has become an integral part of our schedule and has been a stepping stone in placing West View High School at the top.

This year the mixed chorus placed first in country and district contests, and then ranked a high second in the state contest. Because of their superior ranking, they were eligible for national competition. The Girls' Chorus was also county and district champion, and placed third in the state contest. Before leaving the subject of winners, it should be noted that the mixed quartette is champion in its own field, overcoming all contenders to be eligible for the state contest. In very keen competition, it placed a close third.

VOICE ENSEMBLE

"Music hath charms to soothe the savage beast", says an old proverb. "But the ability to charm must be cultivated", explained Miss Conner, sponsor of the Voice Ensemble There were many folks in the school who enjoyed singing, but were not familiar with the various "parts" which provide harmony. To assure the chorus of potential members and to extend a greater musical knowledge to students, the Voice Ensemble was formed, with Annetta Morgan elected as president. Although Miss Conner led this group, she was as sisted by chorus members who could lead each section.

Any hums heard during seventh period Friday were probably "left-overs" from the Voice Ensemble.

In the past month special honors have been won by two debaters in extra speech events. Our dear old Alma Mater will receive two cups for the superb work of Bill Perlik in extemporaneous seaking, and Dick Spatz Both were champions of the Western Pennsylvania District of the National Forensic League. Both of these boys epresented West View High School in the national contest at Lexington, Kentucky.

DEBATE

Tuning in on-
Station W.V.H.S. we hear the question-"Should the Power of the Federal Government be increased?"-and then a lot of static, we think. But in reality it is the debaters offering their side. Walt Reilly, the president, says his bit, and then Bill Perlik says his, and finally they agree to disagree. About this time Miss Skovira comes in and settles them both by asking a tricky question - then they all get to work hunting the answer. Especially elected members are sent as representatives to the Student Congress. The real season's climax is sending the varsity team to debate at Penn State.

During the last three years they proved to be "Easy Aces" as they were the sectional champs. It's a lot of hard work-but it's worth it.

GIRL'S HOBBY CLUB

If we had dialed room number 210 each Thursday at three o'clock we would have heard a busy buzz of hard work. Yes sir! It's Miss Wallitsch's Girls' Hobby Club. These girls have a merry time in room 210, but don't let the word "merry" mislead you, because they really do some hard work on their individual hobbies. Miss Wallitsch also had some of her own work done, for her girls helped her to embroider a bridge set which she purchased to embroider in her "spare time", but it seemed that she couldn't find any "spare time". You see, the girls were quite a help to her. Just before Christmas the girls had a party at which they played several interesting games. Their regular weeks are taken up with embroidering, sewing, knitting, crocheting, handicraft, and many other things. This activity is very educational and interesting for its members.

SCIENCE CLUB

Bang! Crash! Clatter, Clatter! What was that? An earthquake? Indeed no, it's just members of Mr. Thomas' Science Club experimenting again. For convenience sake, the club was divided into three groups, chemistry, physics, and radio therapy

Some accomplishments for the year were, the completion of a workable model of a five meter short wave receiving set by Wilson Brown, and the construction of a flying gas model of a twopassanger Taylor-cub plane which, when entered in the Avalon Hobby Show, was awarded honorable mention. A giant repulsion coil was finished by Bob Orr, Walt Reilly, and John McDonald after two years of hard work. One of Carnegie Tech's physic professors worked patiently with the boys.

The goal set by the entire group for the year was the advancement of scientific interest and the studying and understanding of new trends in scientific thought.

If by any chance any of the technicalities of science are far above your heads, beware, as the law of gravity is still in existence and science can't change that.

GIRLS ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Steps! Opposite side out! Toss it here, quick! Sink it! Sink it! Such is the commotion on the gym when the G. A. A. begin basketball games. Miss Aiken, the sponsor, is kept busy watching the action of such games and keeping tab on the student referee. Besides playing basketball, the girls have also played deck tennis and volley ball. No, that round rubber tire shaped object isn't a spare, nor is it the reasonable facsimile of a doughnut, it's the deck tennis ring-and if ever you care to learn how to toss it, call on a member of the G.A.A. And if, for some reason, you still can't master the volley ball maybe the girls will be willing to teach you something about it.

For participating in various sports and doing extra work each girl receives points which will go toward her athletic letter of merit.

AVIATION CLUB

Zoom . . . A plane breezes over your head and goes into a power dive. It's "Wings over America", (also wings over W.V.H.S.). The junior and senior high school groups are responsible for some of the clever displays of modern aircraft we find around the school. The senior high group craves a deeper knowledge of aviation. They study motors and designs of planes. Some, interested in the theory of flight, discuss this subject. With their president, Charles Stark, they jump (with parachutes on, of course) into the greater technicalities of the flying field; while the junior high group with Donald Thompson seated in the cockpit and the instructor, Mr. Puchta, close by, has stunted and turned about in nifty tailspins getting their fellow pilots dizzy by making many snappy planes. Yes, quite a few well-built model airplanes have been turned out by this ambitious group. This study of aviation has become very important now, as the world is turning rapidly toward traveling by air, and this has helped the group to become a very successful club.

CAMERA CLUB

Instead of the "Shining Hour" today we will bring you the "Dark Hour" or shall we say the "Blackout". Get out your camera, whether it be large, small, or just a common box camera. This is the time for the Camera Club of W. V. H. S. to become occupied. The clicking of the shutter tells us it's time to be in the dark with the developing equipment. This gricup, under the direction of Mr. Davis, has learned by practical experience the art of developing and printing snaps taken by fellow club members. If you care to have an enlargement of that handscme lad or lass whose picture you snapped last week, take it to one of the members or to Ruth Cotton, the president, and they will gladly do it for you. From now on when you see a person running about with a little box in his hand or strapped over his shoulder don't be alarmed, it isn't his lunch, nor is it a surprise package; it's only his valuable camera, all set to take any peculiar or exceptionally "cute" poses of his fellow classmates.

DRESS DESIGNING CLUB

"Wanted in emergency! Wanted in emergency! Any capable seamstresses and designers."

A distress signai goes out as Paris no longer is the style center of the world. America needs ideas, and ideas she shall have for newly designed clothing, streamlined and all, by our own girls in the Dress Designing Club. Miss Burrall, chief stylist, sports many an idea and induces the high school girls to do likewise. Each member has made little wooden pins to differentiate themselves from others. Noted spring styles appeared in the fashion show which the club sponsored, and their Bazaar was something to broadcast.

The leaders, Faith Geipel, president, Ellen Keady, vice-president, Thelma Winter, secretary, and Ruth Hart, treasurer, have become style conscious and have spread their ideals of fashion on to others who are ready to carry on the wonders of the club.

RED CROSS CLUB

"Knit one, pearl two, first thing you know you've got a sweater." No, we're not trying to appear funny, but we do want to stress the importance of the Red Cross Club. The club was organized by Miss Allen and Miss Viard for the purpose of knitting such things as sweaters and socks to be turned over to the Pittsburgh branch of the National Red Cross. The girls have devoted their time and effort to a very worthy cause in this time of world crisis and need.

Have you ever felt you needed a special knack to wrap that bandage around a sprained knee, ankle or wrist? Or have you ever had the difficulty of holding the gauze in your one hand while trying desperately to bandage the other? If so, the "wonders" of the Red Cross will assist you in a very neat demonstration as they have also learned how to master the long rolls of bandage

Now let me tell you the technique of bandaging that sore thumb of yours. Take the bandage in the opposite hand and begin. - - Wait a minute, I've run into difficulty. It seems as though the microphone and I have united as one, (with the aid of yards and yards of gauze). We shall pause for station identification while I try to get myself unrolled.

BOXING CLUB

It is now time for a little session of "Against the Storm." (T'he storm, in this case the punches of the other fellow.) The two contestants come out of their corners to the enter of the ring. They hurriedly shake hands (or should we say gloves?) while the referee starts giving them their last minute instructions on the rules of the game. This done, the two contestants return to their respective corners to wait for the sound of a bell that will start the storm of punches flying, right and left. Yes, the Boxing Club is in futil swing. The sponsor of this active association is Mr. Herman, who tries to keep peace once the boys put on the gloves. The boxers keep in condition by actively exercising on the mats and climbing the ropes in the gym. They say shadow boxing proves helpfu1 to many of the boys, also. Thomas Rafferty was elected to the honorary office of president

BOWLING TEAM

Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen. Here we are again, bringing you the lineups of the West View High School bowling teams. As you all know we are broadcasting from the West View Bowling Alleys, where every Monday at three fifteen o'clock, the W.V.H.S. bowlers along with their sponsor, Miss Aiken, participate in this outstanding sport of the year. But to get back to the lineup. Ah! yes-I see before me six teams, consisting of five men apiece or a league of twenty-eight, who are anxiously waiting to roll their first ball of the day down the alley. I am told that I have a few minutes before the teams begin, so since time permits, I shall give the names of the different teams: the Lions, Bears, Eagles, Packards, Redskins, and the Rams. Each one of these teams has an overseer, whom it calls captain, and it is the duty of each captain to make his team the successful one. Each week, an accurate account is kept of the teams scoring highest, and then the winning teams bowl each other the following week. If you were to question any of the bowlers as to what they think of the sport, you would find that each one had the same answer-" II think it's swell","

I see my time is up, but don't forget to tune in again next week at this same time when you will again hear the balls rolling down the alley for a strike

"THE ARGO"

Our Latin newspaper, the Argo, under the direction of Miss Vance is in its fourth year of publication. For the past years the paper has been sold and the money used for the annual Roman Banquet. However, this year there has been a change of policy. Instead of selling the paper the staff has decided to distribute the paper free to all Latin students. It is to be written almost entirely in Latin, and it pertains to the Latin students only.

West View High School's "Argo" is one of the two Latin newspapers in Pittsburgh The staff, under the editorship of Charles Cooper, exchanges papers with schools all over the country, for instance: in California, Texas, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire and New York.

JUNIOR CLASSICAL LEAGUE

Friends, Romants, and Countrymen! We are broadcasting to you this evening from West View High School where the annual Roman Banquet of the Junior Classical League is taking place. Seated before me are Dr. Maxwell, who is the guest of honor and also the Superintendent of Westmoreland County Schools, Mr. and Mrs. Horsch, Mr. and Mrs. Paynter, Miss Vance, the sponsor of this educational organization, and the seventeen members who actively take part in the Junior Classical League. Now permit me to take just a few minutes to tell you how this group operates. The Junior Classical League meets every Thursday afternoon for a period of fifty minutes. These meetings are opened by the Pontifex Maximus, who is the devotional leader. Next, the roll call is taken, after which the rest of the meeting is spent planning the next issue of the Argo. I see my time is drawing to a close so I shall end by saying that the Latin students of West View High School, including their guests, will remember the evening of the Roman Banquet, and I am sure they will recall it as a very enjoyable one

LIBRARY CLUB

"You'll find it in the last section on the right. "I'm sorry the book is cut-the fine is two cents." This is the chant of a student librarian. Across the oaken top of the charging desk in the library, pass daily an average of 250 books. Books of ficticn, biography, history and science all take their turn in leaving the shelves; yet at the end of the day they are again in their proper place. With the assistance of student libratians, Miss Skovira keeps the library in tip-top running condition. If you're curious about the Spanish-American War, want to know a bit about Emerson, or the mysteries of electricity baffle you-at your finger tip you will find all the information you seek, simply by inquiring at the desk. Although all seems smooth on the surface, many "snags" arise that the girls have to straighten. Along with the appreciation of books they receive, they are taught that precision is the key note to a successful library. Along with work comes play-and so the girls enjoyed a dinner served at McCanns'. Here's to the success of our future librarians

JUNIOR LIBRARY CLUB

I suppose you wonder why we call these people "easy aces"; well we would be in the hole without them.

This group of Junior High students are really "Blues Chasers"; they always keep their clever displays on the bulletins. And then, who could keep up with the "Scoops of News" without the newspaper file that this club takes care of?
"Between the Bookends" are many books which the group discuss during their club period. They enjoy the club, and the whole school benefits from their efforts. They have many activities both for themselves and for the school. In January they had a skating party which provided a good time for all who attended

GIRL RESERVES

"Good evening, Mr. and Mrs. America. Let's go to press!" We now bring you the highlights of the activities of the famed Girl Reserve Club. Together with the president, Esther Partington, and sponsor, Miss Keidaisch, the girls presented the finest of fashions in their fall fashion show. At the beginning of the year the program chairman, Thelma Berg, planned all the meetings and followed closely the schedule. In this was found special guest speakers, recognition service, a tea for the women's committee, and the annual dance at North Park. When the club first organized, the girls wanted to form/their own basketball squad to play other clubs. This year they fulfilled that desire and became queens of the basketball court by winning most of their games.

But don't get the impression that this service club was all play. Yes, they worked together with the social service chairmam, Carol McVay, and the school nurse at different seasons of the year to pack baskets of food for a worthy family of the community. At Christmas, all members collected toys and made stuffed dolls for hospitals.

And the last big affair of the year is one we shall never forget. On May 1, all senior girls were honored at the annual May Day Breakfast with the Girl Reserve as their hostesses.

JUNIOR GIRLS' CLUB

Why can't we be Girl Reserves? It isn't fair. They have all the fun and we sit and watch. Can't someone do something about it? We demand our constitutional rights This sounds like the complaint department. There's one on every national hook-up, or at least there should be

Girls of the junior high wanted a club to go to also, and the constitution stated that groups had the rights to organize. Being too young for the senior girls' club, they organized the Junior Girls' Club and had Miss Smith sponsor them. Then the fun began! First of all it was necessary to find a meeting time. After that was settled, meetings were planned, and girls began coming to the meetings. Each time they became more interested. At last they had a club in which they could do as they planned without the interference of older girls. Each girl devoted her time to her own interests and then too, parties were held, at which each one participated in games and enjoyed herself to the fullest.

CHEERLEADERS

When much static is heard don't blame it on your radio because it's probably just the cheerleaders leading the West View crowd in some rousing cheers. These select six have worked hard getting new motions and cheers. The cheerleaders, Norma Korneke, Ruth Grigsby, A1 Wessel, Barbara Jeffery, Peggy McDermott and John Weixel, met every Thursday after school and practiced. The group has been very active; they sponsored a tea dance and a bake sale for the purpose of buying new uniforms.

Miss Aiken, the sponsor of the cheerleaders has helped them out considerably. With her help the girls secured white skirts lined in red and also heavy white sweaters. The boys also got white sweaters.

Norma Korneke, captain, has tried very hard to make this year's team the best, and we all think they are

STAGE CREW

"Strictly Business" is the slogan of the Stage Crew, and one does not question their adherence to this slogan after seeing the crew at work. Their value is realized only when one actually has contact with them-their cooperation with stage productions is unsurpassable. Setting the scene for a high school office, a night club, a mysterious old house, and several band concerts have been just a few of the tasks of the Stage Crew this year. Handicapped by the fact that our stage is also our gym floor, the stage crew must do double duty in putting up and taking down props. Indeed, a vote of thanks to Harry Wagner, Chuck Stark, Howard Stackhouse, Bill Webb, Bill Rossman, Bill Thias, Charles Cooper, Norman Bach, Joe Lees, and Ed Glenz seems very little pay for their untiring efforts. Miss Daubenspeck is the sponsor of this necessary group.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

Hen--ry, Henry Aldrich"
"Coming Mother-"
No, I'm not trying to be cleverthis isn't just for the theme of the book, it's the title of the Senior Class Play. And what a play it was!

There was a very large cast; thus the rehearsals sounded like the "Traffic Jammers." Most every rehearsl be Jammers." Most every rehearsal began with a basketball game by the male characters of the cast. Then, in the middle of the first act, someone with an over-abundance of energy, would give an imitation of Jack Armstrong, the all-American boy, swinging on the ropes in the gym. Even with all this fun at practices the play was a great success.

Henry was a mischievous boy in his 'teens, who on the "Road of Life" often missed the "Guiding Light" and ended up in the "Doghouse." But in the end he found out that "Life Can Be Beautiful", and everyone was satisfied.

The play was only a "First Nighter' rather than the regular two nioht performance, and it was indubitably performance, and it was indubitably a great accomplishment of the Class Daubenspeck

JUNIOR CLASS PLAY

Tickets please! Tickets please! The lights are dimming-two minutes until curtain time. If it's thrills, laughs, mystery and murder you like, your dish was the Junior Class presentation of "The Call of the Banshee." Yessir, you had all that together in one night's performance of the play. On our very stage that night, April 25, was a high priest of the Amazon valley, trying to catch up with his pet flea, snake or monkey. Yuru was really quite a creature, with his head wrapped in a swirling turban, and great round gold earrings dangling from each ear. The old Irish superstitions of Mrs. Grimes had the whole audience guessing. The white flowing robes of the ghost of Peter Adair floating above the heads of the onlookers proved to be the most thrilling moment. Yuru, Mrs. Gimes, Tom Scott, the colored mammy and the rest will stay with us as the mysteries of "The Call of the Banshee" are remembered. Congratulations to Mr. Craig and the Junior Class for their splendid work!

MAY QUEEN

Excitement and suspense surrounded our school on May 1st, as preparations were made for the gala May Festival. What senior girl was going to be the honored one? Who were the attendants?

A11 Hail! Here she comes!

A gigantic applause met our queen, Elma Emminger, and her attendants, Betty Young and Kathryn Hugel, as they marched proudly down the aisle. Last year's queen, Nancy Malone, abdicated her throne in honor of the new Queen of the May of 1941. May pole dancers, soloists, and jesters performed beautifully for their Queen in the celebration which was concluded by a dance for all attending.

Ladies and Gentlemen

We present "ON OUR WAY", a dramatic and musical interpretation of the Educational Policies Commission's volume on "The Purpose of Education in American Democracy

Here is the story of modern education, its aims, its struggles, its achievements. Here is a message for the American people, the story of their own public schools, the most democratic institution of a freedomloving people. Here in language, clear, melodious, and colorful, we shall see what a good school tries to do, how it helps children grow into healthy maturity, good workers, good neighbors, good citizens.

Every day brings some new challenge and some Every day brings some new challenge and some answering development in American education. Every year adds its quota to the record of significant progress. Our schools have far to go before they fully guarantee the bright promises of the democratic tradition. But we who work in those schools, along with the youths and adults whom we serve, still press forward, hopefully, steadily, and eagerly "ON OUR WAY."

"Inside of Sports"

Figurative cheers and imaginative yells greet our rambling reporters ears as he wanders pictorially and literally through these pages, for in them we have recorded the athletic progress and physical shortcomings of West View's sports stars. At times these same cheers could be heard echoing and re-echoing throughdut anc west View, but the times also came when the chapices for lusty shouting were few and. far between. Each player, whether he be a nember, of a winning or losing team, cannot deny the fact that West View students supported their cause through victory or defeat. The never-ceasing spirit and the non-partisan will of the West Yiew rooters is, to say the least, highly commendable.

FOOTBALL

Fall comes-school opens-students sweat-but beneath all the dignity and excitement, runs an undercurrent of suppressed elation. For with the coming of all these annual occurrences is the opening of the long-awaited West View High football season. There is just cause for excitement and elation over this year's grid campaign. Not bcause we took the W.P.I.A.L. championship or anything like that, but because the boys tutored by Messrs. Hartman, Reed, and Davis were able to compile the best pigskin record yet to be registered at West View. They supplemented their three R's by three three's-three wins, three ties, and three losses. But they have just reason for boasting about those three wins, for numbered among those victims are our arch rivals from "over the hill" Etna and Shaler. It was in these two games that the boys really showed that they knew what a football really was by pushing two physically stronger teams about like play-boys.

"Modernaires"

As the date for West View's annual trip to Etna for their lone nocturnal engagement of the season drew near, a casual visitor to the Park practice field could have detected an electric, grim silence about the camp as the players struggled thru their final warmup cession. The night of the big game! Scurrying crowds, suppressed enthusiasm, a few final words from Coach Hartman, the referee's instiretions and the game is on. In the first few moments West View had ultimate victorly within its grasp when a fourth down fumble was downed by the Rose and Gold deep in Etna derritory The next succession of plays found Johnny Swick, behind excellent blacking, Udeqin &efteq for a touchdown without a hand being laid on him. However, a referee's penatiy completelrnulified the score and left fans, players, and the coaches speechiess. But the West Vjew jufgeenaritwallimbt to be denied that night. At the turn of the sec&nd quarter, West Viehasaig began to pull its way to the Etna goal. Slashes of tackle, slants prer guard, and well executed forward passes took the oval down to the home team's three yaf line. From here, Mike Maiorano slithered off his own right tackle into the end zone for the only legal store of the evening and a clean cut victory over his old home towners for Coach Hartman.

"Sport Slants"

The Junior Varsity experienced unprecedented worries this year as they were forced to adjust themselves to the coaching methods of three different mentors. First, the J. V's who were back from the previous season were used to the methods employed by Mr. Reed, but he announced his intentions of devoting his coaching talents to the wrestling squad. No sooner had they become accustomed to Mr. Metzger's tutoring than he made known his intentions of resigning. From here to the end of the season Mr. Kruse took over the coaching reins and proceeded to build up a formidable squad. Mainstays of the J. V's were Joe La Slavic and Earl Hamburg, two diminutive forwards who were able to hit the hoop for 51 and 49 points respectively. The remainder of scoring was divided between Dick Spatz with 37 points, Don Thumel with 20, Fred Silverman 16, Bill Dillinger 8, Larry Kelly 4, and Wade Peters 3.

"News Roundup"

Ah Ha! Now you did it. Won't that make a swell picture? You've stepped right into the face of the camera and then what do you think happened? Well, the cameraman, simply clicked the shutter, and this was the outcome. Maybe you "didn't want to do it," simply clicked the shutter, and this was the outcome. Maybe you, "didn't want to do it," but now it has happened and there won't be "Some Changes Made," Who is that on that picture in the corner? Maybe it's Yehudi, or is it? I guess it isn't at that. Oh well, you figure it out and then pass the word around. If by chance you see your best friend and figure it out and then pass the word around. If by chance you see your Lights! Camera! Action! Yes, our cameramen were right on the job for action shots of fellow students. Not only did they get shots of individuals, but they also got pictures of our band on parade, our football men trying to heave a truck and those cooking he-men of ours. Look them over. Maybe we caught you in one of your moods. Remember too, the camera doesn't lie.
